Merchandise mix strategy

The world of HUGO BOSS

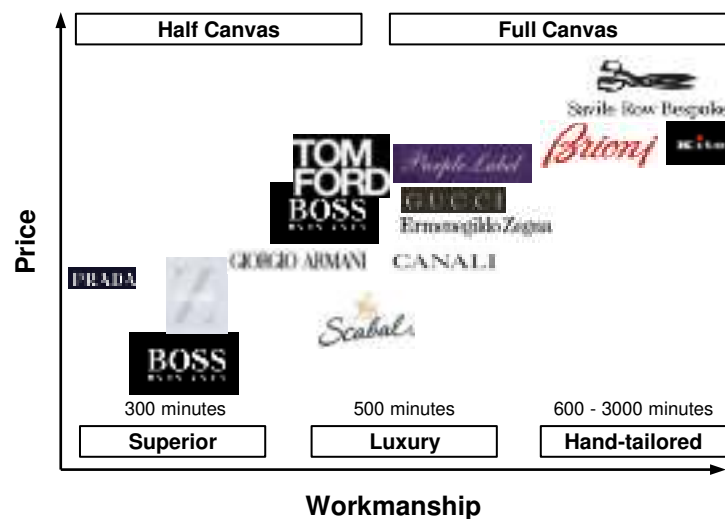

■ Regional merchandise unit enables efficient merchandise operation

Merchandise mix strategy

Sportswear and clothing as two main pillars of our core brand's success

- BOSS menswear clothing is a driving component for the rest of the Asia Pacific business
- Sportswear in Greater China is a platform for future growth
 - Growing importance of tailored sportswear
- Clothing has further avenues for growth across the region
 - Previous improvements continue to drive success
 - Recent increase in suit sales builds a strong business case for a future Made-to-Measure business
 - Global and regional trend supports importance of Made-to-Measure and absolute luxury

Merchandise mix strategy

Made-to-Measure roll-out focuses on HUGO BOSS product excellence

- Made-to-Measure program typifies HUGO BOSS suiting craftsmanship and product quality
- Testing phase already underway, and first end-customer fitting to occur in March 2014
- Program initially offered in Shanghai, Beijing, Hong Kong, Singapore and Tokyo

Merchandise mix strategy

BOSS Womenswear is an exciting opportunity for sustained growth

- BOSS womenswear enjoys high levels of appreciation and valuation after purchase
- Solid platform for robust growth
- Jason Wu to provide the next level of region relevant form and fit
- Marketing and PR events incorporating Jason Wu will provide unprecedented womenswear exposure within the region

Merchandise mix strategy

Shoes and accessories as an example of product excellence

- More space allocated to shoes & accessories in key store locations

Women's S&A space allocation

(women's S&A space as % of womenswear total space)

Country	Location	SA area as % womenswear
Hong Kong	Central Building, Central	19%
	Canton Road, Tsim Sha Tsui	12%
China	Oriental Plaza, Beijing	23%
	Yanlord, Chengdu	20%
	Kerry Center, Shanghai	18%
Australia	Crown Casino, Melbourne	15%

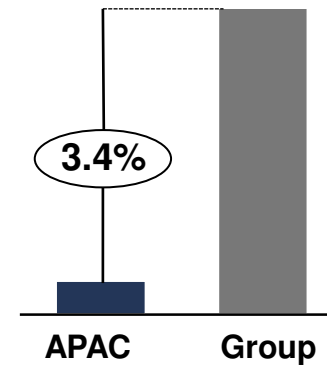

Merchandise mix strategy

Currently underexploited, HUGO provides robust growth possibilities

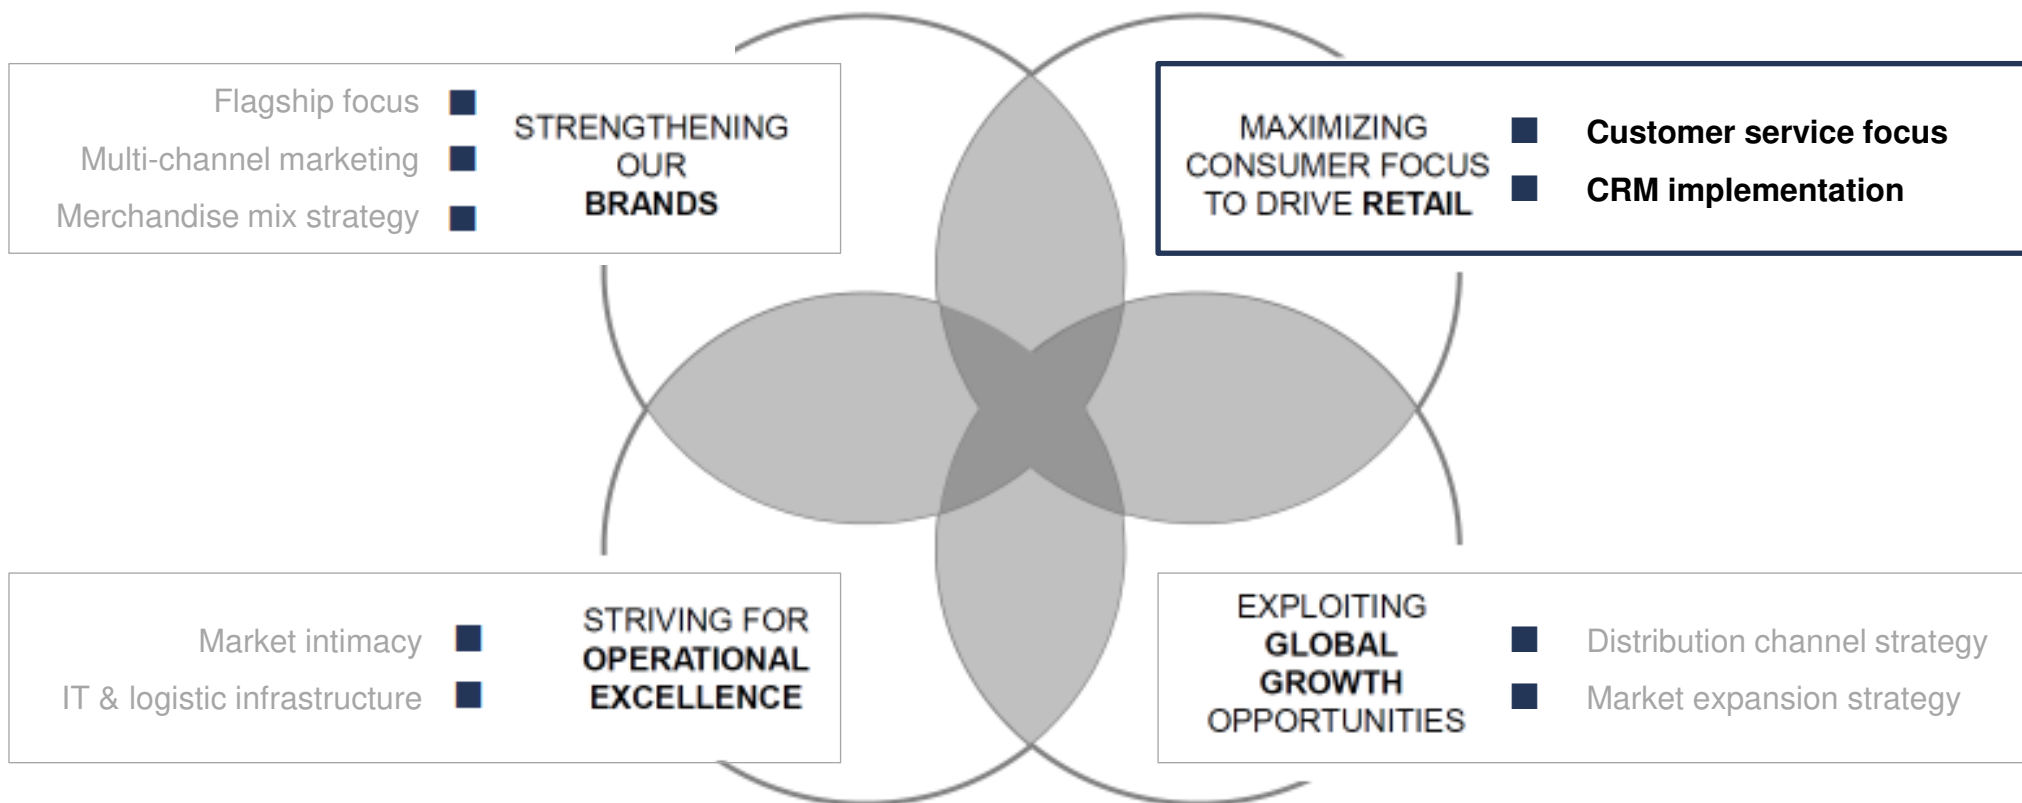

- HUGO's fashion forward core value increasingly resonates with the Asian consumer
- More personal/individual fashion statement (fashion & fit)
- Engage burgeoning younger consumer segment
- Expand footprint of HUGO across retail and wholesale
- Elevate HUGO BOSS brand recognition through HUGO focus
